MONIQUE BEAN / STYLIST

Monique Bean is a freelance stylist currently working between New York and Los Angeles. She has worked and lived in London, New York and Los Angeles with training from prestigious publications like the NY Times Magazine, Harpers Bazaar and Vogue. This background is quickly making her a young sought after stylist. She styles for publications such as Elle, Nylon, Interview, Harpers Bazaar, Travel & Leisure, EXIT, A-4, and New York Magazine. As a freelance stylist she has also already worked with many celebrities including Kate Beckinsale, Evan Rachel Wood, Megan Fox, Anna Paquin, Ginnifer Goodwin, as well as numerous young up-and-coming Hollywood actors.

Prior to going freelance in 2008 Monique was Fashion Associate at The New York Times Magazine for 3 years. In her capacity as Fashion Associate she was a Junior Fashion Editor, Market Editor and Producer for photo shoots involving top-tier fashion photographers and A-list celebrities. She worked along side New Times Editor Elizabeth Stewart on shoots including celebrities Julia Roberts, Cate Blanchett, Charlize Theron, Eva Mendes, Sienna Miller, Kirsten Dunst, Lindsay Lohan, Mischa Barton, Rachel Bilson, Kristin Davis, Zooey Deschanel and with leading photographers such as Miles Aldridge, Matthias Vriens, Sophia and Mauro, Annie Leibovitz, Michael Thompson, Tierney Gearon, and Robert Maxwell.

Monique began her styling career in London in 2000, working under former Interview Fashion Director Karl Plewka. In this position she worked on numerous European publications including i-D magazine, Jalouse, and Mixte with photographers of the moment like Corinne Day. Monique then continued her styling in New York in 2004 working with prominent stylists including George Cortina, Karina Givargisoff, and Caroline Titcumb at publications such as Harpers Bazaar, Vogue, and Vanity Fair.
